Attempt all questions-

- ✓ 1. Youth culture refers to those processes and symbolic systems that young people share that are, to some degree, distinctive from those of their parents and the other adults in their community. How would you analyse youth culture from the perspective of social conditions and from the perspective of cultural images? CO1, 6
- ✓ 2. "Youth today is a public institution; objectified by the state, preserved in law, commodified by business and studied and monitored by rational and scientific expertise; youth have been transformed from disempowered mini-adults to today's object of expertise." Analyse the above statement with suitable examples. CO3, 6
- ✓ 3. "The National Youth Policy (NYP-2014) launched in February 2014 proposes a holistic 'vision' for the youth of India, which is "to empower youth of the country to achieve their full potential, and through them enable India to find its rightful place in the community of nations". The UN has long recognized that young people are a major human resource for development and key agents for social change, economic growth and technological innovation (UNICEF and UN programme on youth, 2011). In the UNDP 'strategy of response to transformative change championed by youth in the country' youth are embraced as a "positive force for transformative change". Do you agree with the above statement? Give reasons. CO2, 5
- ✓ 4. Why is the sociological study of youth also called the study of broader continuity and change? CO2, 3
